A cheese show has been held to which all the arm-in-arm. The language of the ditty, though expressive, is simplicity itself. One verse will serve as a sample:

Broth no more made out of turnips, Taken without leave, you know; No more fear of John Bull's hersewhip; No more peaching, oh, no, no.

Namur was recently the scene of some rather serious disturbances which took place upon the condemnation of a man named Jaumart for the forgery of a will. The trial, which resulted the forgery of a will. The trial, which resulted in his conviction, says the Pall Mall Gasette, lasted twenty-five days, "the people" espousing his esuse with as much warmth as a certain section of the English public exhibited in behalf of the Claimant. At the death of Baron Rasquet d'Alosse, a Belgian nobleman of great wealth, a will was discovered by which Jaumart was named as sole legates, to the exclusion of the testator's own relations. The latter, though morally certain that the will was a forgery, consented to a compromise, but the public prosecutor instituted an inquiry into the facts of the case, the result of which was that he determined to bring Jaumart to trial. More than one hundred and fifty witnesses were called upon each side, and the experts in handcalled upon each side, and the experts in hand-writing took very conflicting views of the mat-ter. Two questions were left to the jury: "Did Jaumart commit the forgery?" or "Did he make use of the will knowing it to be forged?" make use of the will knowing it to be forged?"
They answered the first in the negative, but found him guilty on the second count; and the court, after two hours' deliberation, sentenced him to ten years' imprisonment. The crowd, on his removal from the court to the Namur prison, attacked the van and endeavored to rescue him; the judges and the coursel for the proceedition had to be excerted to the railway station by a strong body of police, and the advocate for the defence was received with shouts of appliance on returning to his hotel. of applause on returning to his hotel.

The workmen engaged in opening a way for the projected railroad between Weldon and Garrysburgh, N. C., struck, on Monday, about a mile from the former place, in a bank beside the river, a catacomb of skeletons, supposed to be those of indians of a remote age, a lost and forgotten race. The bodies exhumed were of a strange and remarkable formation. The skulls were nearly an inch in thickness helly compiled with within here days the right to re-sile, otherwise the trustees reserve the right to re-sell said property after one week's notice, at the risk and cost of first purchasers. All conveyancing the enamel perfectly preserved; the bones were risk and cost of first purchasers. All conveyancing of wonderful length and strength, the femur of wonderful length and strength, the femur being probably as great as eight or nine feet. Near their heads were sharp stone-arrows, some mortars in which their corn was brayed, and the bowls of pipes, apparently of soft coapstone. The teeth of the skeletons are said to be as large as those of a horse.

The bodies were found closely packed together, laid tier on tier, as it seemed. There was no discernable ingress or egress to the mound. The mystery is, who these giants were, to what race they belonged, to what era, and how they came to be buried there. To these inquiries no answer has yet been made, and meantime the ruthless spade continues to cleave skull and body assunder, throwing up some mortars in which their corn was braved, southeast. The lots are on the grade, and will be sold in fronts of 25 feet each, with privilege of whole lot.

Terms: One fourth eash: balance in one, two and three years: deferred notes at 6 per ont, per an true, secured by deed of trust on this property sold:

The province of the sold is also as soon as struck counts of these discoveries, and to throw some off. light, if possible, on the lost tribe whose bones are thus rudely disturbed from their sleep in ear th's bosom.
